HAIR PULLING NARROWLY AVERTED AT MEETING OF WOMAN'S AUXILIARY

A terrible tempest, not in a teapot, but over a cup of the cheering beverage, resulted yesterday at the meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the "American" party, the party of peace and other things. The business of the Auxiliary is to stay put where the party says, and to see incidentally that all things are done to further the interests of the parent or ganization. But sometimes the individual members of the Auxiliary refuse to do the bidding and chaos results.

The row of yesterday—for it was all of that—arose over a trifling matter of a resignation, which, having been called for long and loud, was forthcoming. The neatly written and well worded resignation of Mrs. May Angell as secretary of the organization was duly handed to the president, Mrs. W. H. Wilkinson, and was accepted with a vote of regret expressed outwardly and inward thanks. All went merrily for the remainder of the meeting, although Mrs. Angell still retained the books and paraphernalia of the office she had relinquished. Finally a rush order was made to clear the scene of all business matters and the hostess, Mrs. H. W. Smith, repaked to the culinary de-

GIRL PLAYWRIGHT'S NEW OFFERING SCORES A PRONOUNCED SUCCESS

A genuine surprise was provided for the audience which filled Whitney hall last evening in the presentation of the extremely clever little musical comedy. "The Sub," from the pen of Miss Margaret Whitney. Many went supposing they were to see an amateurish little play, the work of a young girl, but the play bore no marks of being of that nature. The songs interspersed were wonderfully catchy and the plot of the whole was welk conceived and carried out faithfully in every detail. The story is one which deals with college life and has in it a very exciting football game (held behind the scenes). It has to do with all the plots and plans of the lives of young people in college, and is in consequence of interest to every one. Miss Blanche Squires, a beauty and an heiress, who looked the former to perfection, is the leading lady, while Miss Whitney, the composer, takes only a sec-

RESTRIKE OLD COINS SALTAIR IN GOOD SHAPE Dies for Old Mormon Coinage May

Be Used to Supply the Numismatists.

Dr. James E. Talmage is at home from a moma's visit in the east. While away he attended the fourth annual session of the American Association of Museums at Philadelphia. Dr. Taimage was re-elected a member of the council of the association for a period of three years.

The Associated Press issued a dispatch to the effect that Dr. T. L. Comparette, director of the United States mint at Philadelphia, had been quoted as saying that the dies for old Mormon coinage had not been destroyed, but had passed out of the possession of the descendants of Brigham Young into the hands of Dr. L. Image, curator of the Deseret museum, a Salt Lake, and that he could issue as many coins as he wished, without any interference on the part of the government.

Regarding this dispatch, Dr. Talmage said that the gold coins of early days are selected.

After working almost night and day for the past few weeks, the small army of men have succeeded in putting Saltair in splendid condition for the opening to morrow. The resort has had a thorough housecleaning and repainting, and with the many improvements and new features will present an inviting appearance. The immense dance floor, which has been undergoing a complete resurfacing, was completed last night and will be in ideal condition for dancing tomorrow evening. The "Midway" attractions present a pleasing appearance, and some new features have been added. There will be the "Figure Eight," the "Old Mill." the skating. "Ocean Wave" and the "Pilgin's Progress."

The bathing this year promises to be better than for some years past. The water is just high enough to make ideal bathing.

As for Ethel—she's Ethel. Graceful, well-informed as to the best selection of a dressmaker, having studied charm as a fine art. Miss Barrymore makes an appealing figure on the stage, especially to those who are prepared to accept her because they have heard that she is a society favorite in New York. By birth, breeding, early training and environment, she should be a good actress. And at times she shows herself to be one. Hermain duty is to look and be charming, and she does that well. But, in addition to this, there are times when she shows emotional strength. Dora B. Topham, president, treasurer and general manager of the Citizens' In-To The Salt Lake Herald:

In The Herald of the 17th you gave a good position to a piece entitled "To Keep Tab on Dairy Concerns," which is all right. We agree with you perfectly that it is proper to keep tab on everything that mankind does, particularly that pertaining to food which human beings have to eat. Be assured, we are finding no fault with the honorable dairy commissioners in their efforts to improve conditions, which are so much needed. We believe, though, in addition to looking after the creameries, it would be well to go to the fountain head, or the very bottom or beginning, where butter and cheese are produced. It seems that every blow struck by the pure food commission is aimed at the creamery. The farmers and small dairs men are often allowed to handle their milk just about as they piease, and are seldom molested outside the cities.
